

Constitutional Court of Albania participates in the International Conference marking the 20th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of Montenegro

A delegation of the Constitutional Court of Albania, composed of the judges Genti Ibrahimi and Asim Vokshi, participated in the international conference “On the Constitution, the State and Democracy”, held in Tivat, Montenegro, from 1 to 3 October 2026.

Organized by the Constitutional Court of Montenegro to mark the 20th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of Montenegro as an independent state, the conference brought together presidents and judges of European constitutional and supreme courts, judges of the Court of Justice of the European Union, representatives of the European Court of Human Rights and the Venice Commission, as well as representatives of constitutional courts from the Western Balkans.

Discussions across the three conference panels focused on some of the most significant challenges facing contemporary constitutional justice, particularly in the context of European integration. Key topics included the institutional challenges and constitutional changes associated with the process of accession to the European Union, the legal implications of transferring sovereign powers to the European Union, and the use of artificial intelligence technologies in constitutional adjudication.

Particular attention was also given to the ethical dimension of the use of artificial intelligence in the administration of justice, the need to safeguard fundamental rights, and the importance of preserving judicial independence amid rapid technological developments.
